the decks became too hot for the men to work without danger of having their feet blistered. There was danger also that the big fuel tank would explode. The crew took to the lifeboats and were at the merey of high seas for four hours. Answering the Alameda's calls for assistance, the Bristol and Kelweden sighted the signal of distress displayed by the men in the lifeboats and picked them up before going to the assistance of the burning craft.

Naval officials said to-night while the fire on the Alameda is still burning the ship would not sink and probably would reach port to-morrow in tow of haval tugs.

PACIFIC SERVICE TO OPEN.

Refrigerator Ships to Sail for Coast on December 6. President Charles E. Ware, Jr., of the Nawsco Lines, otherwise known as the North Atlantic and Western Steamship Co., announces that the first westbound sailing of the company's refrigerator service to the Pacific coast will be the steamship Dochra, now at Atlantic Basin, on December 6.

She will be followed by the Deerfield twenty-five days later, and thereafter sailings will be fortnightly. The Deer-field, now at Seattle, is due here short-ly before Christmas with a large cargo of apples, fish, butter and other re-frigerated products.

TWO BOYS DIE IN FIRE:

dows.

Fire brigades from the station and several companies from the city battled with the fiames while rescuers attempted to reach the boys. Two sailors were slightly burned in their attempts to rescue the brothers, but no one could pass the fiames blocking the entrance to the second floor and the boys perished.
